Padrons Mahogany

The name “mahogany” when applied to wood is synonymous with strength, quality, and beauty. As a great tree towers with majestic radiance, its beauty dependent on the support below, Mahogany’s roots drew from some of the most exquisite horses the Arabian breed has known. His sire, National Champion *Padron, has left his mark far and wide with an established pattern of excellence in each resulting foal. Mahogany’s dam, the AHW “Aristocrat Mare” Hal Ane Versare, a halter winner herself, was a champion producer — six of her progeny were National winners.

Padrons Mahogany was a delightful creature in looks and personality, with the ability to stamp his special appeal on the next generation. For all of us at Grand Arabian Farm, he was absolutely the king of the farm — in charge — and he knew it. But he was always easy to deal with. He wowed all visitors with his charismatic attitude. We appreciated every day we had with him. He never let us down. His offspring won in the showring and in the hearts of their owners and trainers.
